Purpose of data processing

HCF processes your personal data for the following purposes:

- identification and registration of participants,
- recording registrations, recording entries,
- recording lunch, t-shirt and parking needs,
- organizing the ICF Masters Canoe Marathon World Championships,
- informing the participants,
- keeping financial records,
- compiling statistics and analyses,
- Promoting the sport of kayaking and canoeing

The HCF

- conducts statistical analyses in order to improve the popularity and awareness of the sport and to establish a basis for the development of its activities primarily in the field of leisure sports,
- You may use photos and videos of the participants of the ICF Masters Canoe Marathon World Championships to promote the sport and the event. In this case, use means that you can display photos and video recordings taken at the event on your website and in printed publications related to the event.

Legal basis for data processing

The legal basis for data processing is your voluntary, specific, adequately informed and unambiguous indication of your wishes pursuant to Article 6(1)(a) of the GDPR, by which you consent to the processing of your personal data as detailed below. You can give your consent by checking the checkbox in the online registration system.

In the case of photographs and video recordings of the participants of the ICF Masters Canoe Marathon World Championships, the legal basis for data processing is the legitimate interest of the data controller.

Duration of data processing

HCF processes the personal data you provide until the purpose of the data processing exists and until you withdraw your consent.

In the case of photographs and video recordings of participants of the ICF Masters Canoe Marathon World Championships, the data processing period lasts until the date of the next similar event.

Data transfer abroad

The HCF will send the participants' names, email addresses, dates of birth and nationality, and their entries to the competition's rights holder, the International Canoe Federation, ICF (address: Avenue de Rhodanie 54, CH 1007, Lausanne, Vaud, Switzerland) is obliged to forward it to an international organization based on a contractual obligation.

In addition, HCF does not transfer any data abroad or to third parties.

Scope of processed data

The HCF does not record any special category data about the participants, it only records the data provided by the participants. The HCF records the data of financial transactions (date, amount, currency, paid item, transaction identifier in case of online registration). In the online registration system, bank card payment is made on the payment interface of Barion Payment Zrt (<https://www.barion.com/hu/>), where participants provide their data directly to the financial service provider, therefore no data related to the bank card is held by MKKSZ.

Data generated when visiting websites

Like all web servers on the Internet, HCF's web servers automatically store certain data when you view our websites, which may be considered personal data. When you visit our websites, the servers store the following general data to troubleshoot possible malfunctions, improve services, and detect hacking attempts:

Your rights and remedies

Below we will explain to you the most important provisions of the GDPR regarding your rights and options for exercising your rights.

If you have any comments or questions regarding this Privacy Policy or the content contained therein, please contact the Data Protection Officer at any of the above contact details.

Right of access or information under GDPR

Based on this right, you are entitled to receive information from us regarding whether your personal data is being processed. If such data processing is in progress, you have the right to access and receive information about the personal data processed about you and the following information:

- the purposes of data processing;
- the categories of personal data concerned,
- the recipients or categories of recipients to whom the personal data have been disclosed by the Data Controller, including in particular recipients in third countries and international organisations,
- the duration of storage of personal data or, if this is not possible, the criteria for determining this duration,
- your further right to request from the Data Controller the rectification, erasure or restriction of processing of personal data concerning you, and to object to the processing of your personal data,
- You have the right to lodge a complaint with a supervisory authority,
- if the Data Controller did not receive the data from you, you may request information about all available information regarding the source of the personal data,
- automated decision-making, if the Data Controller carries out such data processing in relation to your data, the fact of automated decision-making, including profiling, as well as the logic used and clear, unambiguous information about it, as well as the significance of such data processing for you and the expected consequences.
- If personal data is transferred to a third country, you have the right to be informed about the appropriate safeguards for the transfer.
- You may request a copy of the personal data that is the subject of data processing and, if there is no statutory obstacle to this, we will provide it to you. If you have submitted your request electronically, the information must be provided to you in a widely used electronic format in accordance with the GDPR, unless you request otherwise.

The right to rectification

According to the GDPR, you have the right to have the Data Controller correct any incorrect or incomplete personal data concerning you without undue delay upon your request. You also have the right to request the completion of incomplete personal data.

Right to erasure and right to be forgotten

Based on this right, you have the right to request that personal data concerning you be erased without undue delay under the GDPR, if one of the following reasons applies:

- the personal data processed about you are no longer necessary for the purposes for which they were collected or otherwise processed by the Data Controller;
- You withdraw your consent which is the basis for the data processing and there is no other legal basis for the data processing;
- You object to the processing of your data and, where applicable, there are no overriding legitimate grounds for the processing;
- the personal data has been processed unlawfully;
- the personal data must be erased for compliance with a legal obligation under Union or Member State law applicable to the Controller; or
- the personal data were collected in connection with the provision of information society services.

If data processing is necessary for the following reasons set out in the GDPR, it is not possible to exercise the right to erasure or to be forgotten, in particular:

- for the purpose of exercising the right to freedom of expression and information;
- for the purpose of fulfilling a legal obligation to process personal data under Union or Member State law applicable to the Controller;
- for archiving purposes in the public interest, scientific and historical research purposes or statistical purposes, where the right to erasure or to be forgotten would likely render such processing impossible or seriously jeopardise such processing; or
- necessary for the establishment, exercise or defense of legal claims.

Right to restriction of data processing

Under the provisions of the GDPR, you have the right to request that we restrict data processing if one of the following applies:

- You dispute the accuracy of the personal data processed about you, in which case the restriction applies to the period that allows us to verify the personal data you consider to be inaccurate or incomplete,
- the data processing is unlawful, but you oppose the deletion of the data and instead request the restriction of its use,
- the Data Controller no longer needs the personal data for the purposes of data processing, but you require them for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims; or
- You have objected to the processing of your data, in which case the restriction applies for a period of time until it is determined whether the legitimate interests of the Data Controller override your legitimate interests.

If the processing is subject to data processing restrictions based on the above, such personal data may only be processed, with the exception of storage, with your consent, or for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims, or for the protection of the rights of another natural or legal person, or for important public interest reasons of the Union or a Member State. The Data Controller will inform you in advance about the lifting of the restriction on data processing.

Notification obligation related to the rectification or erasure of personal data or the restriction of data processing

The Data Controller shall inform all recipients to whom the personal data have been disclosed of any rectification, erasure or restriction of processing, unless this proves impossible or involves a disproportionate effort. We will inform you about these recipients upon your request.

The right to data portability

According to the GDPR, you have the right to receive the personal data concerning you, which you have provided to the Data Controller, in a structured, commonly used and machine-readable format and you have the right to transmit these data to another data controller without any hindrance from the Data Controller.

You may exercise your right to data portability in the following cases:

- the data processing is based on consent or contract, and
- data processing is carried out in an automated manner.

When exercising your right to data portability, you have the right to request the direct transmission of your personal data from the Data Controller to a data controller designated by you, if technically feasible.

The right to protest

According to the GDPR, you have the right to object at any time, on grounds relating to your particular situation, to the processing of your personal data based on legitimate interests, including profiling. In this case, the Data Controller will no longer process the personal data unless it can demonstrate compelling legitimate grounds for the processing which override your interests, rights and freedoms or which are closely related to the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims.

If personal data is processed for direct marketing purposes, you have the right to object at any time to the processing of personal data concerning you for this purpose, including profiling, to the extent that it is related to direct marketing.

If you object to the processing of personal data for direct marketing purposes, your personal data will no longer be processed for this purpose.

In connection with the use of information society services and by way of derogation from Directive 2002/58/EC, you may also exercise your right to object by automated means based on technical specifications.

If personal data are processed for scientific and historical research purposes or for statistical purposes, you have the right to object, on grounds relating to your particular situation, to processing of personal data concerning you, unless the processing is necessary for the performance of a task carried out for reasons of public interest.

The right to submit a complaint to the Supervisory Authority

You have the right to lodge a complaint with a supervisory authority – in particular in the Member State of your habitual residence, place of work or place of the alleged infringement – if you consider that the processing of personal data concerning you infringes the provisions of the GDPR.

In Hungary, the competent supervisory authority is: National Data Protection and Freedom of Information Authority (<http://naih.hu/>; H-1363 Budapest, Postafiók: 9. ; telephone: +36-1-391-1400; fax: +36-1-391-1410; e-mail: ugyfelszolgalat@naih.hu).
